Objetivos

- Conocer la base de datos Films on Demand
- Mostrar cómo acceder la base de datos desde la página de la biblioteca
- Enseñar a utilizar los operadores booleanos
- Presentar como descargar los videos y enviar al correo electrónico
- Demostrar como buscar la referencia en el manual de estilo de preferencia

Films on Demand

Films on Demand es una base de datos de videos transmitidos a través de una plataforma académica muy sencilla de utilizar.

Dentro de la colección tiene un total de 15,500 títulos de videos aproximadamente. Al ser una base de datos multidisciplinaria podemos encontrar videos dentro de los temas de las Humanidades, Ciencias Sociales, Negocios y Economía, Salud y Ciencia.

Tipos de Búsqueda

The screenshot displays the Infobase website interface. At the top, the 'Infobase' logo is on the left, and 'Access Provided by University Of Puerto Rico Cayey' is on the right. Below the logo is a 'FILMS ON DEMAND' button. A search bar contains the text 'Search 37,119 titles and 305,441 segments' and an 'Advanced Search' link. A 'Your Profile' icon is also visible. The main banner features the title 'WE SHALL REMAIN' in large red letters, with 'AMERICA THROUGH NATIVE EYES' in smaller red letters to the right. The PBS logo is in the bottom right corner of the banner. Three arrows point to specific search features: a green arrow labeled 'Búsqueda por temas' points to the 'FILMS ON DEMAND' button; a blue arrow labeled 'Búsqueda Básica: Palabra Clave' points to the search bar; and a yellow arrow labeled 'Búsqueda Avanzada' points to the 'Advanced Search' link. Below the banner, there are two sections of video results. The first section is titled 'Native American Heritage Month >' and shows six video thumbnails with titles like 'Native America', 'Trail of Tears', 'In Jesus' Name: Shattering the Silence of St. Anne's Residenti...', 'TEDTalks: Aaron Huey— America's Native Prisoners of...', 'We Shall Remain: America Through Native Eyes', and 'Southwest American Indian Art: World Indigenous Art'. The second section is titled 'Technical Education >' and shows six video thumbnails related to technical education, including one with 'Intake Valve' and 'Exhaust Valve' labels. DESCRIPTION

In My Americas, Mexican American hosts Roberto Alcaraz and Leticia Vásquez travel into the rich cultural and spiritual life of Latin America in search of their heritage. In this program, Leticia visits Loiza, a town in Puerto Rico founded by former slaves in the 17th century. During the feast of St. James the Apostle, residents dress in ceremonial costumes, parade saints, and dance to West African influenced rhythms. Leticia visits a local artist who carves "vigigante" masks from coconuts and meets famous jazz musician William Cepeda, who returns to his hometown for the feast. At the Caribbean National Forest, she learns about efforts to save the endangered Puerto Rican parrot. Finally, she joins dancers moving to the complex interplay of drummers known as the bomba, in a celebration of Afro-Puerto Rican heritage.

[MUSIC PLAYING] My name is Leticia Vásquez.

I was born in Mexico and I grew up in Los Angeles, California.

The United States is my home, but I also feel very Mexican.

And as a Latina living in the US, I feel part of a larger heritage.

I've set out on a journey, a kind of pilgrimage through Latin America, in search of who we are
